

Jamming it down. Pulling it in. Setting it up... Cadlow™ keeps athletes in the game.

No matter the sport, the Cadlow Shoulder Stabilizer reduces the risk of further subluxations and dislocations when worn during athletic activities. This shoulder stabilizing brace alleviates pain while strengthening muscles both pre-op and post-op by providing glenohumeral stability. Athletes are able to continue normal activities with full ROM.

The Cadlow system includes compression shorts, harness, and progressive resistance tubing. After the initial 15-minute professional fitting, the Cadlow is easy for athletes to wear and remove on their own. The system can be worn under any uniform and is virtually unnoticeable.
