Delivering Independence

At Otto Bock, we are driven by our desire to help people live more independently. Decades of development resulted in easy-to-fit, interchangeable terminal devices that wearers rely on to do everything from delicately cracking an egg to performing car maintenance.

To make your job easier, the industry's largest clinical Professional Services department is on call to make sure that our products deliver what you and your patients are looking for.

Call us at 800.328.4058 for more information, or visit www.ottobockus.com to register for a hands-on course to see the latest myoelectric improvements for yourself.
