Last is definitely best.

Independently owned and operated since 1984, Townsend Design is the last brace manufacturer standing. We have avoided, by choice, the chaos and customer issues that often arise when a company is bought and reconfigured to increase the profitability of a larger organization.

We wouldn't be in the enviable position of being the last independently owned provider and best source for quality bracing solutions if medical professionals didn't recognize the value of what we do – and if we didn't value our customers and our employees.

Call Townsend about a particular patient challenge and you will likely talk to the production manager or orthotist who is directing the fabrication of the brace. Call one of our competitors and chances are you may speak to a customer service rep who isn't even working in the same country where the patient's brace is made!

Does this matter? We think so. We believe patient outcomes are enhanced when their brace is made with patented technology, using exclusive fabrication processes, by long-term employees who genuinely care about our company's reputation and commitment to quality.

If you want to learn about what's new for 2008, please speak with your Townsend representative. You can also visit our website for detailed information about our products and for links to BioQuest Prosthetics and HOPE Orthopedics.
