

Restoring Everyday Living.

When I decided to enter the prosthetic and orthotic profession, I was motivated to help patients return to their everyday lifestyles. Throughout my years in clinical practice, and now as an associate of Seattle Systems, my desire to help people still is utmost in my mind. In this profession, we see approximately 9,000 new cases of spinal cord injury each year in the United States alone. In my role as a CPO, I strive to help professionals in our field by providing thoughtful and practical tools to assist patients through the healing process and rehabilitation.

Over the years Seattle Systems, with a very creative design team and help from many practitioners in the United States and abroad, has developed high quality products designed to help you aid your patients return to their families, work and everyday lives. If you have not looked lately at the wide range of products available from Seattle Systems give us a call and we will send you the latest catalog. We also have several seminars planned for different parts of the country during this year. Let us know of your interest and we will see that you receive an invitation to the one nearest you. You will find us always available at 1.800.248.6463.
